Will your life insurance pay the mortgage?

PERHAPS. But there probably wouldn't be much money left for your family's living expenses. A Nationwide 20 year Mortgage Protection Plan takes out when you are 30, say, costs just $4.33 a month. Yet it will pay off a $10,000 mortgage, completely and immediately if you die. Call today.

Wolf Trap Box Office Swamped

Vienna, Va. – More than 6,500 pieces of mail are in the process of being returned to those who applied too late for in-house tickets to be Metropolitan Opera performances, opening Wolf Trap's fourth season, June 17-22 at Filene Center, it was announced today by John M. Ludwig, general director of Wolf Trap. With the exception of a few tickets for the Wolf Trap Foundation's June 17 opening night benefit, at $50 each, only lawn seats remain.

"Such enthusiasm for tickets is virtually unprecedented in local box office history. The fact that the "Met" has not appeared in this area for more than 15 years probably explains the great excitement of people wanting to see one of the seven performances in the dramatic outdoor setting of Wolf Trap," Mr. Ludwig said, as he urged persons awaiting tickets or refunds to be patient. By April 10, the box office hopes to have all tickets, refunds and adjustments in the mail. In the meantime, a crew of ten workers is busy ten to twelve hours a day trying to handle the deluge.

There are 3,500 in-house seats at Filene Center and places for 3,000 on the sloping lawns looking down to the stage. Lawn seats are priced at $4 for opening night, $3 for the other six Metropolitan Opera performances and many have been sold even this far in advance.

Filling orders is a complicated business and involves a number of operations, checks and double-checks. With this volume of mail, opening filling, adjusting orders and returning tickets and money takes approximately six weeks. Wolf Trap patrons are urged to give the box office and the postal service a chance to finish their work, before worrying about what has happened to their order.

The 1974 Wolf Trap season runs from June 17th through September 8th. The complete program wnnen will include, in addition to performances by the "Met," eight other opera and operetta performances, will be announced in early April.

Our Health

by C. H. Tracy, M.D.

My son plays in an amateur rock band. Can constant exposure to loud noise be harmful to him?

It may be but it is rare that it will cause lasting damage.

Most people in generally good health take ordinary street sounds such as motor horns and construction noises in their stride. But a hypersensitive person will suffer greatly from such disturbances. Loud noise is also a very serious threat to people suffering from pneumonia, heart disease accompanied by insomnia, and people recovering from surgical operations. This is why cities provide zones of quiet around hospitals and nursing homes.

Experiments have shown that constant impinging of sound on the nerves raises blood pressure, and that a person awakened by noise will remain tense for as long as thirty minutes. A sound disturbance during sleep raises the blood pressure and causes the muscles to contract.

People who earn their livings in an atmosphere of constant noise often develop a minor form of deafness, dizziness and headaches. Research indicates that it requires 10% more energy to perform a duty in noisy surroundings as opposed to a quiet environment.

In the late 1960's, when it was apparent that rock 'n roll was here to stay, many rock musicians and people who frequented rock concerts complained of hardness of hearing. It was discovered that continuous exposure to loud music was the cause.

Various methods such as rubber ear stoppers have been devised to diminish the effects of noise.

I've noticed a lot of rough dry spots around my elbows and knees. They soften up after I bathe, but as soon as my skin dries, they reappear. What can I do about it?

Continuous bathing in hard water with harsh soaps does more harm than good to dry skin. Some of the body's oils are lost each time you shower or bathe. A therapeutic bath oil such as non-greasy Alpha Keri is formulated to adhere to the skin, locking in the body's natural moisture. This aids in keeping the skin soft and supple while protecting it against drying elements.
